Character "Twitter Tweet" Activity - Teacher Directions
 Abstracting a specific story or a character from a book, have students choose (or assign) one character from the story to be a "Twitter Tweet" on Twitter. The character could include descriptions and tweets. (For students who need help, provide a character card.)

Grading: Teachers may grade on completion, or look at whether the student addressed the following areas:
 1. Was clear.
 2. Did the character "tweet" in a way that was clear.
 3. Did the character "tweet" in a way that was clear.
 4. Did the character "tweet" in a way that was clear.

Common Core Standards (ELA Grades 6-12) addressed in this activity:
 L.1-2 Analyze a text or media message to determine how the text says explicitly and implicitly what it asserts about a subject or issue, what details create a sense of the subject matter, and what style and format contribute to its effectiveness.

Character “Twitter Tweet” Activity - Teacher Directions:

After reading a short story or a chapter/section in a book, have students choose (or assign) one character to write a “Twitter Tweet”: a 140-character summary of what just happened, or how they feel about the events that took place. The character count includes punctuation and spaces. (For students who need help counting out characters, a practice page is included.)

Grading: Teachers may grade on completion, or look at whether the student addressed the following areas:

1. Was the main event or theme (central idea) of the story mentioned? (Or did they miss the point completely?)
2. Did the student write in first-person from the character’s perspective/viewpoint? (for fiction summary)
3. Any spelling, grammatical, mechanical errors?
4. Length: over 140 characters?

Common Core Standards (ELA Grades 6-12) addressed in this activity:

Reading: Key Ideas & Details

Grades 6-8

1. Cite the textual evidence that most strongly supports an analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text.
2. Determine a central idea of a text and analyze its development over the course of the text, including its relationship to supporting ideas; provide an objective summary of the text.

Grades 9-12

1. Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text.
2. Determine a theme or central idea of a text and analyze in detail its development over the course of the text, including how it emerges and is shaped and refined by specific details; provide an objective summary of the text.

Writing: Text Types and Purposes

Grades 6-8

3. Write narratives to develop real or imagined experiences or events using effective technique, relevant descriptive details, and well-structured event sequences.

a. Engage and orient the reader by establishing a context and point of view and introducing a narrator and/or characters; organize an event sequence that unfolds naturally and logically.

d. Use precise words and phrases, relevant descriptive details, and sensory language to capture the action and convey experiences and events.

10. Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline-specific tasks, purposes, and audiences. (This would cover the shorter time frames.)

Grades 9-12

3. Write narratives to develop real or imagined experiences or events using effective technique, well-chosen details, and well-structured event sequences.

a. Engage and orient the reader by setting out a problem, situation, or observation, establishing one or multiple point(s) of view, and introducing a narrator and/or characters; create a smooth progression of experiences or events.

d. Use precise words and phrases, telling details, and sensory language to convey a vivid picture of the experiences, events, setting, and/or characters.

10. Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of tasks, purposes, and audiences. (This would cover the shorter time frames.)
